

CODE OF ETHICS TO CHECK MALPRACTICES AND PLAGIARISM IN RESEARCH

Our college strictly follows the research ethics, which are need to be bounded and admired by the entire faculty. The said guidelines stand as key factor and driving force to our staff. Keeping in view of research as tool to enhance and upgrade lives of all walk of society, we as team striving hard to do the best in our practices.

- The research must have objectives and aims
- The research must be thought provoking ,analytical and apt to execution
- The research areas should support either directly or indirectly student and faculty community.
- The research must be genuine and practically worth to study (One need to acknowledge it their own work)
- The researching staff and student must take prior permission from respective department and their heads. (i.e. To take guidance and support from the authorities)
- The researcher should provide concrete evidences in support of aims and objectives of their respective topics
- The researcher should do SWOT analysis.
- The researcher should be allowed on duty (i.e. in order to make the researcher much focused on respective research areas)
- The researcher should share their ideas and views in the faculty development program i.e. in order to make all the other staff members part of new research.
- In our college we encourage the researcher by rewarding, i.e. According to the management guidelines.
